Charges say Caballero work below par

Dr. Emilio Caballero, deposed art department head at West Texas State University, made public late Friday the charges alleged against him by university administrators and said the charges are false.

He made public a letter to him dated Sept. 2 from Dr. Lloyd I. Watkins, university president, in which Watkins outlines specific charges upon which Watkins alleges the decision to deny reappointment of Caballero to department head was based. Twenty-one charges are listed.

In other action Friday, a day of morning-long negotiations between university counsel and Caballero's attorney, a hearing committee of three department heads and two deans was named, and a tentative date was set for a public hearing on Caballero's appeal.

Caballero, art department head for 20 years, resigned in January but disclaimed his resignation in June and asked university regents to reinstate him as department chairman. They did so, but also established a procedure to be followed should Watkins remove Caballero from the department chair.

The procedure was put into effect in August when Watkins informed Caballero he would not be reappointed as head of the department, but would be retained on the university faculty as a full professor.

The charges contained in the letter to Caballero from Watkins are listed below:

"In accordance with the procedures established by the Board of Regents on August 2, 1975, I am informing you of the reasons for the non-reappointment recommendation. Your performance as department head has been inacceptable in the following areas of administrative responsibility:

"A. Administrative Actions, Practices and Judgments

"Your failure to demonstrate an understanding and an aptitude for administrative functions in a manner necessary in a university setting is evidenced in the following ways:

"1. Capriciousness in evaluation of faculty (statement regarding tenure status of faculty member in October, 1974).

"2. Failure to provide faculty recommendations and evaluations which can be supported by factual data (Spring, 1975, recommendations).

"3. Failure to communicate adequately with your faculty on matters that are of concern to them (teaching assignments, class scheduling, art scholarships awarded in 1974-75).

"4. Failure to submit correct schedules and reports in the form requested.

"6. Your inability or unwillingness to explain adverse decisions to those people affected by them (For example, the former practice of requiring a student to pay an add fee in late registration to enroll in a class when space was available in the class prior to the close of regular registration).

"B. Employment Policy and Practice

"1. Failure to comply with established university hiring procedures and policies (Employment of Claude Salley in 1972) (Job offer to ineligible applicant—Graduate Assistantship to Mike McCullough in 1972).

"2. Failure to notify 1974-75 academic year graduate assistant appointees in a timely manner.

"C. Course Enrollment Exceptions

"1. Improper enrolling of and grade reporting for a student in 1967 resulting in a problem with the student's degree requirements in 1975 and more seriously resulting in inaccurate reporting on the University records.

"2. Improper enrolling of a graduate student in another faculty member's class with the assignment and evaluation conducted by you rather than the professor in whose class the student was enrolled (Spring of 1974).

"D. Accuracy and Correctness of Reports

"1. Failure to submit a satisfactory class schedule because of a disregard for previous class schedule agreements made with your faculty (October, 1974).

"2. Failure to provide the necessary and accurate information required in a proper class schedule (Schedule submitted January 15, 1975).

School group backs annexation

A subcommittee on school finances recommended Friday night that the Canyon school district give up to the Amarillo district land to the west and southwest of Amarillo.

The recommendation, which appeared headed for trouble in the full Committee for Sound Finance, was the first formal positive action taken by a body in Canyon on the land annexation.

The subcommittee's recommendation will be considered for approval by the whole committee Thursday night.

Members of the Committee for Sound Financing, a citizens advisory board established by the Canyon school board recently, generally agreed Friday night that real property in the district should be reappraised and that the percentage applicable to taxable value be hiked.

They are to act on that recommendation Thursday night also.

The subcommittee headed by Joe Gidden of Canyon recommended the following:

"We feel the two communities in Randall County should work together to promote the opportunities for best serving the school age residents of this county in a peaceable, cooperative manner.

"This would mean, in our opinion, to cede the property, immediately west and southwest of the Amarillo School District, to the Amarillo Independent School District; and to build adequate facilities for present needs and some future growth in the Canyon Independent School District."

Supt. Jerry Jacobs recommended that if the entire committee adopts the recommendation as stated, additional wording should be included which stipulates that any annexation must be according to present law.

He explained that annexation of school lands now in the Canyon district is impossible unless residents and taxpayers of the area in question actually petition for annexation by Amarillo.

And that, he said, might be nearly impossible in most areas in the north part of the district because of the tenacious desire of the residents to remain in the Canyon school district.

He said polls have shown that at least 90 per cent of those residents in the north part of the district moved into the area specifically because of the Canyon School District.

Gene Howe area committee members confirmed this contention, with Mrs. Karolyn Farmer, president of the Gene Howe PTA, affirming the desires of residents in that area to remain in the Canyon district.

Gidden and subcommittee members Hermas Miller and Harold Root pointed out that the recommendation referred only to now vacant property immediately west of the Amarillo school district and not to areas now populated by Canyon School District residents.

Gidden's subcommittee also recommended that the Canyon School Board "reappraise present taxable property and raise the taxable per cent to 100 per cent, with an appropriate rate for meeting the School District budget."

A subcommittee headed by Mrs. Earl Reynolds also recommended that a reappraisal be undertaken and that the taxable per cent be hiked to 60 per cent.

Currently, the school district taxes on a rate of $1.92 per $100 of valuation on 40 per cent of valuation. If the recommendations were followed the valuation percentage would be hiked to either 60 per cent of 100 per cent value or the full 100 per cent.

Jacobs explained, however, that a full reappraisal of real property in the district could cost as much as $200,000 if conducted by a firm specializing in reappraisals.

He indicated it might be more suitable to simply adjust the various formulas used in the tax office for figuring fair market value from their 1966 levels to 1975 standards. He said the school district is currently using formulas derived in 1966 and as a result, the school district's actual per cent of assessment is around

Over new state Constitution

Sherman sees vote battle lines forming

State Sen. Max Sherman told Canyon Kiwanians Friday he favors passage of the proposed new Texas Constitution but the battle lines are beginning to form in opposition to some articles in the document.

Sherman, who sat as a delegate to the Texas Constitutional Convention in spring 1974, said he believes the new proposal is a far better document than the current Constitution, which was drafted in a post-Civil War Texas.

A major advantage to Sherman is the fact that the new proposal is readable.

"You can pick up this document and read it," he said. "It reads intelligibly, I hope."

Another advantage is organization, he said, with all issues pertaining to specific statefunctions or programs organized under one heading.

Nevertheless, Sherman said he anticipates that opponents to passage of the new Constitution, which goes on the ballot for voter approval on Nov. 4, will single out several specific areas in the document to focus their opposition.

One area he suggested might draw fire is the proposition which calls for annual sessions of the legislature. Currently, the legislature meets every other year in six-month sessions. Under the proposed Constitution, the legislators would meet in odd numbered years for six months and during even-numbered years in brief 90-day sessions primarily for consideration of an annual budget.

Sherman scored the current budget-making procedure, made mandatory because of the biannual sessions of legislators, and said it forces governmental agencies such as West Texas State University to foresee expenditures as much as two years in the future.

"Most businesses should not be run the way the State of Texas runs its business," he said.

Another advantage of annual sessions, he said, is that it will give legislators, who serve only two year terms, an opportunity to gain public feedback more often on matters pending their consideration.

He said many bills are presented, considered and passed during the final 36 to 48 hours of each session and of those bills some may not be adequate or appropriate. An additional session would allow the legislature to put off hectic last-minute decisions, he said.

Sherman urged a heavy turnout at the polls for the new Constitution.

Quoting a Chinese proverb, he said: "I learn but I forget, I see and I remember, I do and I understand."

He called on the Kiwanians to become actively involved in their government and said the best way to do that is to cast ballots when a vote is called.

WTSU faculty council critical of uses of student evaluations

Members of the West Texas State University faculty council, in their first meeting of the school year, Friday initiated studies of the university's faculty promotion policy, the use of student evaluations of instructors, and the use of pre-registration for students.

They criticized the use of student evaluation sheets of faculty members, particularly in the promotion-selection procedures for the university.

Dr. Walter L. Shelly, faculty council chairman, read to other council members letters from Dr. David LaBrie, council chairman last year, and Dr. Ray Malzahn, academic vice president, concerning the use of student evaluations of faculty.

The LaBrie letter to Malzahn, sent last spring, underscored faculty concern with the continued use of student evaluations and noted a faculty poll taken in the spring which indicated that while most faculty members desired some sort of student evaluation of instruction, the majority desired that the evaluations be handled at the departmental level rather than the administrative level.

The Malzahn letter, in response to LaBrie, noted that a general re-evaluation of the effectiveness and continued use of student evaluations of faculty would be conducted this term.

The council will invite Dr. Malzahn to attend the Sept. 18 session of the council to discuss the continued use of student evaluations.

Shelly and other council members expressed the concern that the student evaluations, which students fill out on each of their instructors during the school year, may have been misused in the past with only

Buffs lose season opener

WICHITA, KAN.—Wichita State took advantage of West Texas State's mistakes in the second half to grab a 13-7 upset win over the Buffaloes Saturday night in a Missouri Valley Conference football opener.

Kent Van Vleet and John Blazek kicked third-quarter field goals and quarterback Sam Atkins provided winning points with a 1-yard scoring plunge with 4:01 left in the game.

West Texas' only points came with 1:21 left when Freshman Halfback Robert Mayberry pulled off a circus catch of a Tully Blanchard catch in the Shocker end zone.

Van Vleet's field goal came after Buff Quarterback Blanchard fumbled on the first play of the second half at the 21-yard line. Wichita could not move the ball and Van Vlett's 28-yard field goal split the uprights.

Another Blanchard fumble set up a second three-pointer almost 10 minutes later with Blazek kicking a 27-yarder.

Wichita's longest sustained drive of the evening, a 53-yard effort, culminated in Atkins' touchdown plunge before West Texas State got the ball into the end zone on its last possession.

The Shockers had a slight edge in the statistics, outgaining the Buffs 191 to 176 in total yardage although first downs were even at 13 apiece.

The difference in the game was that West Texas State gave up the ball four times on miscues while Wichita was perfect in the turn-over department.

The Buffaloes meet Lamar's Cardinals next week end.

Even with hikes, taxes here still low

Even though taxes were hiked this summer by three Randall County taxing jurisdictions, local residents are still paying far less for their governmental services than are folks in surrounding counties.

Taxes for Randall County residents who live inside the City of Canyon and the South Randall County Hospital district are about 30 per cent lower than taxes for Potter County residents who live inside the Amarillo city limits.

While the actual tax rate figures indicate taxes are lower in Canyon than in Amarillo, other factors too cause taxes to be lower here.

A resident owning a $20,000 home in Amarillo would be taxed by the City of Amarillo with a rate of $1.30 per $100 on 70 per cent of valuation; by the Amarillo School District with a rate of $1.61 per $100 on 70 per cent of valuation; by the Amarillo College District with a rate of 27 cents per $100 on 70 per cent of valuation; by the Amarillo Hospital District with a rate of 51 cents per $100 on 70 per cent of valuation; and by Potter County with a tax rate of 80 cents per $100 on 36 per cent of valuation.

For a resident with a $20,000 home, the total tax burden from these taxing entities would amount to $572 per year, if the home is on the tax rolls at full 100 per cent market value.

A Canyon resident with a similar home would be taxes by the City of Canyon with a rate of $1.82 per $100 on 40 per cent valuation; the Canyon School District with a rate of $1.92 per $100 on 40 per cent of valuation; the South Randall County Hospital District with a rate of 28 cents per $100 on 51 per cent of valuation; and by Randall County with a rate of 95 cents per $100 on 25 per cent of valuation.

The total tax burden for a resident with a $20,000 home in Canyon, then, would be about $373, if the home is on the tax rolls at full 100 per cent market value.

However, a survey of tax

Chamber directors due annexation discussion

Directors of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce will discuss Monday night whether to take a stand on the current land annexation sqabble involving the Canyon and Amarillo school districts.

All local chamber members have been invited to attend the board meeting, which will be at 6:30 p.m. at the community center.

Weldon Trice, president of the chamber, said he will poll the board members to assess their feelings on the school land question.

"I think all members should express their opinion on the thing," he said.

He said he will also determine whether the board "wants to take a stand or not."

The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce board of directors two weeks ago passed a resolution recommending that the Canyon school board allow Amarillo to annex about 11 sections of land south and southwest of Amarillo to allow for future growth of that city.

Their action was the latest in a series of endorsements for annexation from Amarillo officials. Builders and developers have been actively lobbying for de-annexation of Canyon property for Amarillo.

Amarillo chamber officials approached the Canyon chamber's leadership about two years ago in a lunch meeting in Canyon asking that they approach the Canyon board to allow the Amarillo annexation effort.

At that time, Chamber Manager Roland Black and then-President Raymond Raillard appeared before the local board asking them to study the issue.

The Canyon board has continued to refuse to allow Amarillo to annex school properties now lying within the Canyon district. They have appealed to the Texas Education Commissioner a decision made last November by the Randall County Board of School Trustees allowing Amarillo to annex 160 acres of subdivision land just south of Amarillo.

Trice said a letter has been written to all members of the chamber asking them to attend the Monday night session for a general discussion on the role and activities of the chamber board and to provide input on projects the chamber should pursue.

From the past

Bicentennial echoes

BY LORENA MILLER

Historical newspaper accounts of Canyon's growth and celebrations through the years are generally of interest to old timers as well as community newcomers and with this fact in mind we'd like to supply the information for 'Bicentennial Echoes of the Past,' as contributed this year by numerous individuals with a file account of one of the first Randall County community wide celebrations occurring in July 1939.

Accounts from the July 13, 1939 issue of the "Canyon News" shows that a 72 page historical edition with pictures was nearing publication for the 50th anniversary celebration of the county. (Previously in October 1929 a similar historical edition with 52 pages had been printed. And on July 30, 1964 on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the county a multi-sectioned historical account of the history of Randall County was published containing 86 pages of newsprint and pictures).

These historical accounts of the history of Randall County each took numerous hours and weeks of preparation and journalistic digging to produce. And celebrations over the years also take a number of hours of planning and preparation before the fun day can begin.

On July 13, 1939 the celebration planning committee was being asked to meet together to review committee members planning for the 50th anniversary. The meeting was designed as a checkup on arrangements being made for the Big Pioneer Day and Ray Campbell, general chairman, urged that all who have been working on the celebration plans be present at this important meeting.

According to the newspaper account street decorations were to be put up for the occasion and practically all business houses had signed contracts for uniform store decorations and street banners to be set in place for the celebration events.

A big flag which had been made for a special visit by President Roosevelt was to hang from the court house during the day and plans were underway for the biggest parade that Canyon had ever seen with commercial organizations and businesses entering floats.

Work was also underway at the time to erect a monument to the pioneers on the northeast corner of the court house lawn with Dan F. Sanders, George Al Farlow, Sandy Norris and R.A. Terrill composing the committee in charge of the work there.

A speaker's platform was erected on the courthouse square for the celebration and from this platform the distinguished visitors and parade judges were given a special view of proceedings with a large public address system set up to broadcast the day's proceedings from a central point.

Ray Campbell and Andy Walsh along with John Snider, the barbecue king, had ordered the necessary amounts of bread, beans, onions, pickles, coffee and other food to go with the 30 beeves which were being prepared for feeding 10,000 folks expected to attend the celebration.

And with a flip of the news files we find that on July 26, 1939 some 15,000 residents and visitors were entertained at the 50th anniversary celebrated although the community had planned for 10,000 persons.

Visitors were registered from 21 states, with one guest even coming from England. In addition to the local county residents and those of the surrounding Panhandle of Texas several carloads of tourists were recognized for their stopover to see the parade and participate in the activities that day.

The people of the Texas Panhandle turned out to help Canyon and Randall County with the 50th anniversary celebration which at that time was recognized as the longest and best parade staged in West Texas that year, with more than 200 county pioneers being recognized at the celebration, over 15,000 persons being adequately fed with the barbecue dinner, and the day was completed with perfect weather.

For four months the people of Canyon and Randall County had been planning and working toward the celebration and every citizen of Canyon was behind the movement with their energy and efforts to make the celebration the best yet.

The following news account of that celebration comes direct from the files of the Canyon News, issue July 27, 1939:

This morning — the morning after — people of Canyon are well tired out — almost to a frazzle. But the words of praise which were sung in the ears of all local citizens by the thousands of visitors more than compensate for all the aching feet and tired muscles this morning.

Canyon has not attempted a major celebration since the college was located here, although thousands of visitors are entertained at various times throughout the year.

But when Canyon did go into action — for this 50th Anniversary — the greatest celebration of them all was the result.

Opening the celebration was the spectacular five-mile long parade — a parade ruled by Her Majesty, the Queen of Randall County, Mrs. L. G. Conner, the first homemaker in this area, the mother of the first white child born here, and the widow of the city's founder.

Mrs. Conner, wearing a replica of her wedding dress, rode on her own float — in blue and white.

Leading the five-mile long parade were a corps of State Highway Patrolmen, all decked out in cowboy shirts and headed by Captain Jim Line. They were followed by the color guard and the Happy High School Band, in the famous red-white-and-blue Uncle Sam suits.

Two of the city's guests of honor — Col. Ernest O. Thompson of the Texas Railroad Commission, and Dr. J.G. Ulmer, president of the board of regents for teachers colleges — rode with Dr. J.A. Hill, president of West Texas State College in the official college car. They were followed by C.H. Jarrett, mayor of Canyon.

A military note was injected into the parade by Company F of the 142nd Infantry, under the command of Captain W.E. Lockhart. The National Guardsmen wore their summer uniforms with tropical hats.

The days when law and order rode horseback were recalled when a line of Panhandle sheriffs, all in bright shirts and big hats, rode down the street abreast. Included in the group were Sheriff Bill Adams of Amarillo, Sheriff Hugh White of Tulia, Sheriff Fuqua Younger of Dumas, and Sheriff Tom Harris of Panhandle.

Roy Leeper and His "Indians" came next followed by Dr. George P. Grout aboard "Astral Queen."

There were plenty of cowhands in Canyon yesterday — in fact, over 250 of them. Business men, college students and children as well as old timers who rode horses when they were a necessity, turned out in the cowboy regalia, and on every kind of horse imaginable to take part in the parade. The long procession of horsemen was one of the outstanding features of the procession. Included in this section were Mr. and Mrs. Charley Franz and their rodeo performers.

Transportation of Yesterday was vividly portrayed by a long string of early day vehicles. Leading the group was the first stagecoach ever brought to this country and included the state coach of the Tri-State Fair Association, John Knight in an old buggy, Calamity Jane and her girls in an old station wagon, the Wells Fargo Express, the Lair family in a wagon, and an old ice wagon of not-so-long-ago era.

An old time buggy, attractively done in white, was the entry of the Cinderella Beauty Shop, which was followed by the colorful Hereford Band.

Much ingenuity and originality was shown in the bicycle division of the parade and Canyon youngsters proved that they possess decorative ability — some were so elaborate they resembled miniature floats.

The Tulia band was followed by the authentically-puffing Santa Fe freight train of many cars that trundled down the street.

Following the Dumas band in bright orange and black uniforms came an oil truck procession sponsored by local oil companies.

Heavy applause greeted the Amarillo Golden Sandie Band, and much interest was shown in Canyon's fire-fighting equipment, driven by Chief Frank Hicks, Donald Trolinger, Bob Foster, and G.H. Hardman.

An educational feature of the parade was the one of schools and colleges, headed by Judge Burney Slack and his son on horseback. This section included a typical old-time school room and wagon in which children used to go to school. In contrast were the modern school busses of Canyon, Lakeside, Zita, Stone, Jowell, Palo Duro, Tierra Blanca, Amarillo and Happy schools.

A beautiful white and blue float in the shape of a beet was the entry of the Imperial Chevrolet Company, while a striking red and white float was the entry of the Canyon Grocery.

One of the outstanding floats was that of West Texas State College

Feds need dose of thrift

By CARROLL WILSON

Curious about where all that money goes that Uncle Sam takes from you on April 1 each year?

That $300 billion plus must go somewhere for something even if we middle-class folks here in Canyon reap the benefits only periodically, if at all.

Well, it does. And exactly where it goes and for what is the subject of a new book, The "The Federal Rathole," by Donald Lambro. Lambro doesn't go through the whole federal budget to examine where our money is going, but he gives a few dozen pages of examples.

Like the 1250 federal advisory boards, committees, commissions and councils which this year are funded for a mere $75 million of our money.

About 24,000 public and private citizens sit on these boards and a total staff of 4,000 federal employees keep them going.

Lambro lists all of them and if there is anything on Earth not covered by a board, committee or commission, I can't think of it.

There are, for example, an Advisory Panel for Anthropology, one for foot-and-mouth disease, a National Peanut Advisory Committee, and advisory panel on raisins, a Plant Variety Protection Board, a National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, a Waterfowl Advisory Committee, at least two review committees on contraceptives, one on anti-perspirants, a Committee for the Recovery of Archaeological Remains, and even a review committee on laxatives.

Then there is the infamous Board of Tea Tasters, which is funded $178,000 for the year.

Lambro's point in reviewing the committees, boards and panels is that many are duplicated as many as three times. There are, for example, three panels on the status of women. His point is also that many of the committees do their work behind closed doors and without observation and nobody really watches them.

Other federal agencies also come in for their share of Lambro's caustic comment. Government travel costs for the year, for example, he estimates at about $481 million and he says much of the travel is needless and taken simply because it is easy to get by with.

While the public's attention is often focused by publicity on big rip-offs, like the federal food-stamp program, Lambro's book points out that taxpayers are being bled to death by the old nickel-and-dime routine.

It is easy to say the answer to the problem is a reduction in the federal government. Not so easy to do, however, as Nixon and Ford have shown by their attempts to do just that. Despite their efforts at cutbacks and savings, the government gets bigger.

Perhaps Texas legislators have come upon a good solution. They passed a bill recently which would automatically destruct any agency or group created after a certain period of time unless the agency or group could prove it worthwhile to continue.

The same kind of approach needs to be tried at the federal level.

Our World

Work is a blessing to man

BY ANN BROWN

Another Labor Day has come and gone. Did it accomplish anything more than a 14-year low in highway slaughter?

Labor Day was established to recognize and honor the dignity and value of labor. Now the "work ethic" is discussed as something one can take or leave.

It's true some can leave it as long as there are plenty of others to take it.

The ones who disparage work still want to eat, wear good clothes, drive good cars, and live in nice houses. All of these things require a tremendous amount of work from somebody.

We all like plumbing that works, but few want to dig the ditches or clean the drains.

We like good food, but how many are willing to plant even a small garden?

Nearly everybody enjoys bacon, sausage, and ham. But who wants to raise dirty hogs?

We couldn't get along without milk, butter, and eggs; but who wants to milk cows or take care of noisy chickens?

It's easy to ignore the dirty work our needs require — as long as somebody else does it.

If the lights go out or a water pipe bursts in the middle of the night, we want the electrician or plumber — right then. And that's cold, hard, dirty work.

If there is an accident or sudden illness, we expect to rush to the emergency ward of the nearest hospital, and find doctors and nurses prepared to minister to our needs. And that is grueling toil.

The world is full of maladjusted, troubled, depressed people. But few of them are found among those whose lives are dedicated to productive labor.

When a worker is depressed, it's usually because he has too many non-workers on his back — many of them via his taxes.

Con artists, embezzlers, swindlers, thieves and robbers, welfare recipients, and all idlers — employed or unemployed — are living off the fruits of somebody's labor.

(Retired people who provided for their old age during their productive years are in no way a part of the idle class).

We complain about our taxes that are spent on welfare, but crime costs us $ billions for courts, police, and prisons. And the $ billions that merchants lose through thieves, robbers, shoplifers, and hot checks must be passed on to the paying customers.

Every person who manages to live without working is doubling the burden of some worker. It is questionable which one loses most in the transaction.

A reasonable amount of work is a blessing, and too much is a burden. In fact, psychiatrists have yet to devise better therapy than useful work.

The problem is that the depressed person has no energy. The more depressed he gets, the less work he is able to do. And the less work he accomplishes, the more depressed he becomes.

Animals grow their own clothing, require a minimum of shelter, and can usually forage for food.

Man is so created that it takes constant work to provide his food, clothing, and shelter.

Adults who do not work to supply their own needs are usually in trouble. Whether they are ill, idle, or rich, the non-productive are unhappy.

Parents can do their children no greater dis-service than allow them to grow up in idleness.

The child who is taught to work, and is praised and rewarded for his labor, has the best possible start in life.

The majority of successful men in America have always been the sons of farmers — the hardest working class in the world.

After a long life as the richest potentate in the East, who had denied himself no joy, Solomon counseled the man who aspired to be happy to remain faithful to the wife of his youth, and enjoy the comfort and food and drink that his own labor provided.

If labor were not a blessing, would we have been designed by an all-wise Creator to need so much of it?

Commissioners to Discuss Federal Grant

Canyon city commissioners will meet at 7 p.m. Monday at the community center to hold a public hearing on a federal grant program which has made about $22,000 available to the city.

The funds have tentatively been earmarked for paving of existing streets in West Canyon.

The funds are available through the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Other business scheduled for the commission's consideration includes passage of a new electrical code ordinance, appointment of members to a new Park and Recreation Board, and awarding of bids for new police cars.

Miss Townsend Receives Scholarship

Mary Jane Townsend, Canyon sophomore, has received a $200 Residence Hall Scholarship from West Texas State University for the 1975-76 school year.

She is the daughter of Dr. Charles Townsend, associate professor of history at WTSU.

The Kitchen Sink

By SUSAN WILSON

There are very few things which can truly motivate a woman to clean her home when she hates housework.

The housework-hater does things only on a demand schedule. She mops the floors when she tires of prying the kids from them. She does the laundry when she can no longer hide the dirty clothes and the only clean things hanging in the closet are two college-days formals and old winter maternity clothes.

She cleans her medicine cabinet while she's searching for the baby thermometer. She cleans out the refrigerator when things begin to smell bad or look a little too green and fuzzy. She washes her windows when her mother-in-law comes.

I'm one of those kind of housekeepers.

But, recently I was truly motivated to become Miss Spic-n-Span of 1975. Just a couple of four-letter words did it.

No, Hubby didn't get fedup and start cursing at me. Though he could with reason. Hubby never complains about the house. I suspect he thinks if he starts complaining he may have to start helping.

I'm really talking about really dirty four-letter words. Filthy, as a matter of fact. I'm talking about "ants," "bugs," "mice."

When you suddenly realize that your bad habits have become a health hazard you develop an over-powering urge to clean. I'm not suggesting you go out and get some of the nauseating little creatures. But, without being preachy, if you keep house like I do, you won't have to.

The sugar ants came first. I was a little more careful about leaving sweets out, and I sprayed them and I thought my problems were solved.

Then one morning as I was rummaging through the pile of empty cereal boxes, dirty dishes and stamp books on my kitchen cabinet while I was looking for D'Arcy's tennis shoes, a little roach ran across the counter.

Bugs! My spine ran cold, my stomach turned. I dropped an empty soup can on the floor and ran.

"Is there a mirror in the kitchen?" my husband asked with a sarcastic grin. "Or, have you decided to get in shape with 20 laps around the garbage sacks?"

"Horrible, creepy, wriggly little things are in my house!" I screamed as I headed out the front door.

"But, honey," I could hear him yell as I turned the corner on 11th Avenue, "I think the kids are kinda cute."

My composure regained, I returned to the house, brandishing my Hot Shot with a Matt Dillon swagger, and sprayed the kitchen from top to bottom and thought once again all my problems were solved.

Then, one morning as I was rummaging through the pile of dishes, empty cans, cereal boxes and stamp books on my cabinet, a silverfish ran across the counter.

Bugs! This is no place for a weak stomach, I thought, so I ran out of the kitchen and grabbed the kids, headed downtown to Hubby's office with the perfect plan.

"No, Susan," he said calmly from behind his typewriter, "we're not moving. I like our house."

Back home I went.

But, I couldn't face the little creatures in my kitchen, so I took the kids next door for a visit with my neighbor. I confided to her about the bugs and she just happened to mention that she thinks she has a mouse.

She showed me a package of chocolate chips, the edge of which had been gnawed open. Now, in my house I would simply assume one of my kids had been responsible. But she doesn't have any kids and her husband doesn't even like chocolate chip cookies.

As soon as I got home I got down to work. I have never worked so hard but I was in a terrible mood.

While I was cleaning at the cabinets, I looked for any signs of mice. I didn't find any but that didn't mean much. I'm a logical person and I know that those mice were coming to my house but took a wrong turn. As soon as they send out a scout and discover the treasure trove over here, I thought, they'll be here en masse.

Why should they waste time anywhere else when my house would provide an absolute orgy for the hairy little rodents?

So, here I am on my crash clean-up program. The women's division of the Chamber of Commerce would swoon at the thought of the massive work ahead of me. So far, I've cleaned my cabinets, washed my dishes, found D'Arcy's tennis shoes, put all the food away and I'm driving Hubby buggy.

I'm exhausted, I'm grumpy and I'm scared to death some night I'm going to walk into the kitchen and come face to face with a nine-foot mouse made fat by my left-overs.

I think I've come up with a solution, though, and it's another four-letter word— a MAID.

Miss Spurlock-Friemel Exchange Nuptial Vows

Mrs. David Edward Friemel nee Susan Lynda Spurlock

Double ring nuptial vows were exchanged by Miss Susan Lynda Spurlock and David Edward Friemel in a ceremony Saturday evening, September 6, at Spurlock Chapel, 23 miles southeast of Stratford.

Rev. Todd Dyess, Methodist minister who serves both the Spurlock Chapel and the Dumas Methodist Church, officiated at the marriage ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Stanley Spurlock of Route 1, Stratford, Texas and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A.R. Friemel of Box 56 in Umbarger.

Spiral candelabra flanked each side of the altar and a candle arrangement with greenery and flowers marked the piano. The communion table was laid with a loaf of bread in a pewter goblet and was decorated with a candle in a pewter holder. The marriage candle service was used for the joining of vows.

Mrs. June Friemel, pianist, presented appropriate pre-nuptial selections and the vocal arrangements were Sunrise, Sunset sung by Mrs. Dena Spurlock, The Wedding Song and Wedding Prayer by Mrs. Kay Hudson and Til Death Us Do Part by Boyd Spurlock.

Escorted and presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original wedding gown which had been made by her mother and which featured lace trimming taken from her mother's own wedding gown. The dress of miramist illusion over candlelight satin was designed with a high neckline with lace edging and featured full sheer sleeves with lace trimmed wristbands and a flounce over the hand. The fitted rise skirt was floorlength miramist illusion over candlelight satin and swept to the back forming a cathedral length wedding train. The wedding skirt was edged with a wide flounce and featured lace trimming. Her picture hat headdress had chantilly lace veiling in a mantilla style using lace from her mother's wedding dress. She carried a cascade arrangement of white gardenias and roses atop a wedding Bible.

The bride's sister, Kathy Spurlock of Sunray, served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Cindy Hester of Canyon and Alvina Freemen of Wichita Falls, a cousin of the bride. They were gowned in formal length dresses of pink chiffon featuring gathered bodices with lace trimming, and short sleeves as they carried white flared baskets filled with organdy and satin roses in shades of pink and cranberry. The bride's attendants wore picture hats with cranberry ribbon trim.

Kay Lynne Spurlock of Stratford and Julie Spurlock of Sunray, cousins of the bride, served as flowergirls and wore pink chiffon dresses like those worn by the bridal attendants. They carried baskets filled with organdy and satin roses and had bonnet headdresses for the occasion.

Gene Johnson of Canyon served as best man and groomsmen were Kenneth Friemel of Canyon, a brother of the bridegroom, and Ronnie Hager of Canyon. Gregg Hudson of Stratford was a junior attendant for the groom.

Ushering were Wesley Spurlock and Bryan Friemel and the candlelighters were Jeff Spurlock and Jay Friemel. The groom's attendants wore black tuxedoes with pink shirts for the occasion.

A patio reception honored the newlyweds at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hudson, Rt. 1, Stratford following the wedding. A white four tiered wedding cake with pink accents with a decorative fountain between tiers was served from the bride's table along with a champagne punch and other condiments. Serving at the bride's table were Marilyn Schuette and Cindy Hester, both of Canyon, Beverly Waldrop of Boys Ranch and Beverly Darby and Terry Smyth, both of Amarillo. Chocolate cake, tea and coffee were served at the groom's table by Mrs. Sammy Sims of Amarillo.

After the indoor-outdoor patio reception, the couple departed for a wedding trip to the Taos Ski Valley in New Mexico and will be establishing their home at 2003 2nd Avenue in Canyon after spending a few additional days in the Santa Fe area.

A 1973 graduate of Sunray High School, the bride was employed with Sears Credit Office in Amarillo prior to the marriage.

Her husband is a 1972 graduate of Canyon High School and is employed with Richardson Farm Supply in Umbarger.

Plans for the membership tea of the Canyon chapter of the American Association of University Women were discussed in the patio room of the Jack Taylor home at 417 Taylor Lane this week by Mrs. Taylor, left, the hostess and Mrs. M.L. Sherrod, chapter president. The tea will be held this afternoon, Sept. 7, beginning at 2 p.m. in the Taylor home.

AAUW Membership Tea Is Today

Canyon chapter of the American Association of University Women begins the current year's study with a tea for members and prospective members today, Sept. 7, beginning at 2 p.m. at the Jack Taylor residence, 417 Taylor Lane.

Canyon chapter members and prospective AAUW members are invited to attend the occasion by chapter president, Mrs. M.L. Sherrod. Membership in the AAUW is limited to women holding a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university and Jane Munsell, membership chairman of the chapter, will be on hand to answer questions posed by prospective AAUW members.

"Society and the Individual: Conformity vs. Creativity" will be the study theme for the general membership this year and will be discussed at the tea. The local chapter also has numerous study groups which meet monthly for membership and those groups will have sign-ups at the tea.

Study groups for the 1975-76 year are Drama with Mrs. George Blackwell, leader; Books with Mrs. Anna Wright, leader; and the 21st Century to be co-led by Dr. Enid Bates and Gene Crowder.

Hostesses aiding Mrs. Taylor with the tea Sunday will be Carolyn Blackburn, Jane Wheeler and Barbara Johnson.

Golden Anniversary Honors Davises Here

A family dinner honored Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe B. Davis of 1118 Hillcrest, Canyon on the occasion of their Golden Anniversary.

The former Lucille Watts and Davis were united in marriage August 31, 1925 in Canyon. The couple has resided in Canyon throughout their 50 years of marriage.

Mrs. Davis is a retired Canyon Public School teacher. Davis, a World War I veteran, served 30 years as a rural mail carrier and was co-founder of the Davis Agency. He also served as a member of the War Price and Rationing Board during World War II. Both are members of the First Presbyterian Church in Canyon, where Davis is an elder.

Mrs. Anita Walsh, 6310 Jameson, Amarillo, and Bill Davis, 26 Hunsley Blvd., Canyon, are children of the couple. They have six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Sewing Club Begins Year

Friendship Sewing Club met Thursday afternoon, September 4, at the home of president, Mrs. O.E. Sherer, to resume activities following the summer break.

Members answered roll call with "something we did and places we went this summer" and Mrs. Leonard Winters reported on the club's last meeting and gave the financial report. The members had a secret pal gift exchange and brought cookies and Kool Aid for the Amarillo Speech and Hearing Center to the meeting.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Tony Simon, Nell Sheets, Leonard Winters, L.E. Hermesmeyer, Charlie Winters, Herrick Simon, Clarence Winters, O.E. Sherer and a guest, Donna Kay Rankin.

Next meeting of the club will be September 18 at 2:30 p.m. in the Tony Simon home at 610 11th Street in Canyon.

Wedding Date Set

The engagement and forthcoming marriage of Miss Cynthia Lou Kuhlman of 201 S. Fillmore, Amarillo and Thomas Richard Tebeck of 1102 W. 15th, Amarillo is announced by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Kuhlman of Rt. 2, Canyon.

Plans are being made for an October 11 marriage ceremony to be read at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Canyon.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Canyon High School and currently serves as manager for Rodeway Inn in downtown Amarillo.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Tebeck of Burbank, Washington and attended Columbia High School in Burbank, Washington. He is currently employed with American Realtors of Amarillo.

Remodelling Underway At Sr. Citizens Bldg.

Volunteer workers are being sought by the Canyon Senior Citizens as the group is presently involved in remodeling construction at their new homesite.

The Senior Citizens recently purchased the former First Christian Church building at 1719 5th Avenue and will remodel the basement for regular social meetings of the organization.

Remodeling construction is already underway with the central partition of the basement removed and the group needs volunteers to clean bricks and remove nails from the used lumber for further use.

Presently members of the Senior Citizens are spending their morning hours from 8-12 a.m. at the site involved in the work and additional volunteers will be appreciated, according to E.R. (Dutch) Cleavinger, chairman.

The Senior Citizens are also presently taking applications for a janitorial position. Applications may be made at the Senior Citizens Building, 1719 5th Avenue, and the applicants will be reviewed by the board before being hired.

Donations of scrap lumber will be accepted by the organization and will be picked up. Scrap lumber in 1 and 2 inch thicknesses are needed.

Bicentennial Ball Planning To Begin

Planning will get in full swing Monday evening for the 'American Reflections' bicentennial ball to be held in late October with proceeds to benefit beautification projects for the campus of West Texas State University.

The planning session Monday evening, September 8, will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Panhandle Plains Historical Museum with committee chairmen, helpers and other persons interested in the project urged to attend.

This year's bicentennial ball is being planned for October 25 to feature dancing, exhibits, refreshments, art, a reader's theatre and square dance exhibition and will be staged in the facilities of the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum here.

About 2,000 invitations are expected to be issued for the affair which is a joint effort of the West Texas State University Advisory Council on Campus Enhancement, the Panhandle Plains Historical Society and the Randall County-Canyon Bi-Centennial Committee.

Coordinating the 'American Reflections' bicentennial ball will be the WTSU Advisory Council on Campus Enhancement with Mrs. Lloyd I. Watkins, honorary chairman, and co-chairmen, Mrs. Franklin W. Daugherty and Mrs. Charles M. Smallwood.

Co-chairmen for the gala event this fall will be from the Panhandle Plains Historical Society including Joseph H. Pool, society president, Dr. James A. Hanson, museum director, and Mrs. Leonard Wilson, museum secretary, along with Dr. Duane F. Guy, chairman of the Randall County-Canyon Bicentennial Committee.

Heading committee assignments for the affair will be Mrs. Robert P. Muir and Mrs. Frank M. Blackburn, invitations; Mrs. Keith Winter, music and entertainment; Mrs. Jack Taylor and Mrs. David L. Wheeler, decorations and lighting; Mrs. J. Pat Stephens, special exhibits; Mrs. Ed C. Harrell and Mrs. David LaBrie, refreshments; Mrs. James Thomas, programs; Mrs. George B. Asquith and Mrs. Alvin Kuhlman, publicity; and Mrs. Raymond L. Bates, tickets.

'American Reflections' bicentennial ball invitations numbering approximately 2,000 will be in the mails soon for the community-area affair which will benefit beautification projects for the campus of West Texas State University. Preparing invitations from left are Mrs. Robert P. Muir, Mrs. Franklin W. Daugherty, and Mrs. Frank M. Blackburn. The ball is set for October 25.

Missions Field Offers Challenge To Family

BY LORENA MILLER

Donna Garner, 27, her husband, Leslie, and six year old son, Bruce, have been serving in mission work at Chihuahua in Old Mexico for the past three years.

The Garners have been in Canyon for the past two weeks for a brief visit with her parents, Bob and June Bruce, who reside northwest of the city. While Mrs. Garner and Leslie remained here to visit with her parents her husband was reporting on the couple's mission work to churches in Elkhart, Liberal, Wichita and Wellington, Kansas as well as at Fort Worth.

Married in 1966, Donna and Leslie are both graduates of the Baptist Bible College in Springfield, Missouri where she earned her degree in Christian Education and her husband received his degree in theology during May 1969. They spent a year's internship with Grace Baptist Church in Amarillo before going on the mission field and were involved in deputation services for a year earning support for their work in Mexico.

"When we got to Mexico," stated Mrs. Garner "we spent our first eight months learning the language at a school in southern Mexico."

Their home and mission work is in Chihuahua, Mexico (located 300 miles into the country) where their city of Chihuahua has 450,000 inhabitants. The Baptist Bible Fellowship supports their work with monthly support given individually to the headquarters at Springfield by a number of churches including Grace Baptist Church of Canyon, Southwest Baptist Church and Grace Baptist Church in Amarillo.

"Although this church gives $10, and that church provides $25," stated Mrs. Garner, "it is all forwarded to Springfield and combined into a lump sum check before we receive it. And none is held out from the pledges given by the local churches to our work."

From their monthly support check, the Garners are allowed $450 for family living expenses and the rest is used solely for the upkeep of their mission work. The couple is involved with a Baptist Mission Work in Chihuahua which provides a church for the city with an average attendance of 350 individuals and also provides total support for a Bible School (which is a seminary effort giving a three year preparation course to Mexican converts entering the pastoral and missionary field).

The Baptist Mission Work of Mexico which was established by Louie Kahler, a veteran missionary, was inherited by the Garner's when Kahler's health began failing. He had been with the mission work in Chihuahua for 14 years before the Garners arrived.

The Baptist Mission Work in Chihuahua itself has church members from the middle class but other outreach missions of the church include four separate missions where the poorer class is involved. The other mission works include Cardenas Mission, 40 miles south of Chihuahua; Delicias Mission, 60 miles south of Chihuahua; the Parral Mission which is located in a large southern city on the tip of Chihuahua; as well as the La Villa Mission which serves the poorer segment of Mexicans in the northern part of Chihuahua State, Mexico.

In addition to their own work, the Baptist Mission Work in Chihuahua individually supports 29 other foreign mission works in other parts of the world with their own $10 contributions monthly, according to Mrs. Garner.

"We also support the mission at Mazatlan," she stated.

"About 95 percent of the Mexican people are Catholic," she said. "And the Baptists are not the only denomination with missions in that country. In Chihuahua we also have missions of Methodist, the Holiness Faith and the Churches of Christ."

"We find that our converts are hungry for a deeper understanding of the gospel and the Bible," she said. "Our gospel is spread through door to door visits, sometimes including 8-12 hours a day for visitation."

Just prior to their visit in Canyon, the Garners were involved in a summer Vacation Bible School with the main church in Chihuahua which had an enrollment of 2,000 and an average daily attendance of 1,550 during the week. Professions of faith from the VBS totaled 827, according to Mrs. Garner.

"We had a summer Youth Camp at Camargo (2 hours south of Chihuahua) and rented a motel and restaurant for the four day camp which drew 120 Mexican youths. We had 15 professions of faith from the youths, aged 13 and up, and of these 12 will be going into school for fulltime mission service training."

"These kids," stated Mrs. Garner, "wouldn't ever get a chance to attend the school or pursue their field of mission work if we didn't furnish their tuition, board, room and other expenses while they attend.

"If we didn't help them in this way, they wouldn't be able to come because most of their parents are in the poor economy and besides they have the additional drawback of parents who have been brought up in a different religious field too," she concluded.

The Garner's young son, Bruce, attended a Mexican kindergarten last year and this fall will be attending a private Mexican-American Institute where he will have first grade instruction from both Mexican and American teachers. The curriculum will also be half Mexican and half American courses, according to his mother.

The Mexican-American Institute is a private school with a tuition charge of $32 per month for each student. The Institute staff also works with adult Mexicans in teaching them English during the evening.

As the Garner's return to Chihuahua, they will be stopping in El Paso to pick up school supplies for their school and expect to return sometime soon to get a new van for transportation of students in the Mexican countryside.

"Presently," noted Mrs. Garner, "we have a nine passenger van with four wheel drive but the gas is already at $1 a gallon and will be $1.60 per gallon next month — so in order to provide transportation to church, etc. for the folks in the countryside we have ordered a six cylinder van to continue our work.

"It was a necessity," she related. "Leslie runs a route into southern Chihuahua each Sunday and during Vacation Bible School packed about 100 kids into the van and brought them to class in two trips to the countryside."

"Every Sunday he brings in 35-40 young people from the countryside to attend church services," she concluded.

Missionary work in Chihuahua, Mexico is a shared family work for Donna Garner and young son, Bruce, as they await the return of their husband and father, Leslie Garner, at the home of Mrs. Garner's parents northwest of Canyon.

Caballero . . .

"3. Failure to submit a correct budget request (1975-76 Budget Request).
"4. Failure to report your professional activities in a true and accurate manner (Alleged attendance at T.A.S.A. 1972-73).
"5. Failure to submit appropriate employment information for a prospective teaching assistant for consideration by your Dean (Vita sheet for Josephine Wyatt).
"6. Failure to submit a written rating for each faculty member as requested by your Dean concerning merit recommendations for salary increases for your faculty.
"7. Failure to comply with State Residency Laws in regard to the payment of tuition for an out-of-state student.

"E. Budget Control and Bookkeeping Procedures
"1. Failure to adequately manage and control the budget.
"2. Failure to exercise proper control and direction of departmental spending, delegating this authority to those unfamiliar with University fiscal proceedings (Allowing student secretaries to exercise control of the spending.

"F. Attendance at Pertinent Professional Meetings
"1. Failure to attend meetings of T.A.S.A. which are important to keeping informed of trends and developments in art and higher education in Texas."

The letter from Watkins to Caballero also lists the witnesses who will be called on behalf of the administration during the hearing.

They include Dr. John Green, dean of the School of Fine Arts, who "will present the case against you as outlined in the points above;" Mrs. Bitsy Downing, of the university business office; David Rindlisbacher, an art instructor; Darold Smith, an art instructor; and Dr. Ray A. Malzahn, university vice president for academic affairs.

Caballero issued the following statement concerning the charges against him:

"The list is long and complicated, but in my judgment and to the best of my knowledge all the charges contained in it are either false or based on misinformation, or are relatively unimportant, nit picking, and repititious.

"Since so many people have been interested in my situation and since there has been so much speculation and even gossip about what charges would be brought against me, I am releasing to the public a copy of the charges even before I have had an opportunity to prepare an answer to them.

"Also, I shall request that the hearing on my case, which is to be held according to the procedures established by the Board of Regents, be an open, public hearing in order that all interested persons may have an opportunity to hear my answers to these charges."

Caballero said Friday evening he's "not worried in the least" about the charges and the outcome of the hearing.

"I wish this could have come out a long time ago because of the rumors and viscious gossip," he said.

Of the hearing, he said "I'll be looking forward to it."

Dr. Watkins Friday afternoon released the names of the university officials who will serve on the hearing committee. They are Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of the School of Agriculture; Dr. Ted Friedell, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; Dr. Robert Sawvell, head of the geography department; Dr. Robert Burton, head of the department of geology-anthropology; and Dr. Myron Dees, head of the department of health, physical education and recreation.

Watkins said the committee members have agreed to serve on the committee and are to meet Monday afternoon to select one of their number as chairman.

Watkins said attornies for Caballero and the university tentatively agreed on Sept. 25 as the date for the hearing on the matter.

George Whittenburg, Caballero's attorney, met with William Bednar Jr., an assistant Texas Attorney General, Miss Karen Johnson, WTSU legal counsel, and Watkins Friday morning.

Bednar will represent the university at the hearing.

He is the Attorney General representative who recommended to regents in July that they establish the due process procedure now in effect in regard to the Caballero appeal.

Plainsmen Down Eagles

Canyon's die-hard defense couldn't stop an aerial assault by the Monterey Plainsmen Thursday night there and bowed in their season opener against the 4A rival 21-0.

The combination of Scott Gardner and Richard Bowles, about the only offense Monterey showed during the game, proved too much for an out-manned defensive backfield.

Gardner, a lanky senior quarterback with a good arm, connected with Bowles on almost every aerial he attempted and the spring senior splitend proved too much for defenders.

The Eagle defense proved to be the only shining spot for the home team, which is under new leadership this year. The offense, plagued by fumbles, was stymied from the start by the Plainsmen.

Monterey, a contender for their district title in 4A, scored on their first possession of the game in Lowery Field.

Starting at the Canyon 46, Gardner moved his team to paydirt with 6:40 showing on the first quarter clock. A pass to Bowles for 18 yards capped the drive.

Eagle defenders held the Plainsmen during the remainder of the quarter, but on Monterey's first possession of the second stanza, the running and passing of the multi-talented Gardner again spurred Monterey to score.

Gardner hit the middle of the line from the one for the Plainsmen's 13th point just five plays after Joe Luquette fumbled away Canyon's ball on the Eagles' 11 yard line.

With 6:16 remaining in the first half, Monterey held a 14-point edge.

Bounding back after half-time, the Eagles held the Plainsmen during the third period, but a forced punt late in the quarter set the stage for the final Monterey drive.

Taking the ball on their own 36, Monterey maneuvered up field on the arm of Gardner for the final score. With 9:3 remaining in the half, Gardner hit Bowles for a 23 yard pass and the score.

In their win, the Plainsmen racked up 12 first downs to the Eagles' five.

Monterey had only 78 yards on the ground during the game but Gardner threw 32 passes, completing 15 for 229 yards in the air. The Eagles had 79 guards on the ground and Eagle Quarterbacks Allen Shankles and Ricky Cooper hit six of 11 passes for 33 yards.

Next week the Eagles travel to Borger for another 4A meeting.

Berry Top Player

"I can't say I'm happy with the loss, but, I was pleased with the play of our defensive line and linebackers. For the first game, their play was excellent." These comments were made by Canyon High School head football coach Deane Wright following the Eagle's season opening loss to Lubbock Monterey, 21-0.

"Offensively, we didn't play well at all," Wright said. But, he added, the second half offensive attack was considerably better than the opening two quarters.

The Wishbone offense isn't that easy to execute and Monterey stunted quite a bit and confused the offensive line, the head coach said.

The Monterey aerial attack was devastating to the Eagle cause. "Fortunately, I don't think we'll see that good of a quarterback and receiver for the rest of the season," Wright said of Monterey quarterback Scott Gardner and wide receiver Richard Bowles.

Elliot Berry, Eagle linebacker, was named by the coaches as the outstanding player of the game. Berry made five unassisted tackles along with seven assists. After the game film was graded, Berry scored a grade of 28. "Anytime someone grades over 20, he's played an excellent game," defensive coordinator Alton Fields said.

Other defensive standouts included linebacker Wayne Robinson and lineman Bob Lee.

— a green gridiron on which were athletes representing the different sports. This float was followed by the Buffalo Band.

Mothers-in-law of Canyon had an attractive float of their own and another pretty float was that dedicated to the Gold Star Mothers.

Bathing beauties were the feature of the Service Station float, while much interest was also shown in the 40 and 8 train brought by the Amarillo legionnaires.

The prize-winning entry — a huge white birthday cake with 50 candles — was the work of the Canyon American Legion Post and the Auxiliary.

Attractively decorated was the float of the Farlow Electric Company and the two — one showing a pioneer home and the other a modern home — entered by the Burrow Lumber Company.

Wildlife of the Panhandle-Plains area was shown in the float sponsored by the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum of this city.

A typical ranch scene with bunk-house and campfire with cowboys gathered around was the entry of the Thompson Hardware Co.

Following the Canyon High School drum corps, came the Olympic float, one of the most artistic in the parade. Next was the Amarillo delegation, with Mayor Rogers, the Amarillo Rotary Club and entries from several Amarillo business enterprises.

An attractive Miss on a wooden horse formed the display of the Canyon Hardware Store, while a huge orangeade and four pretty misses at a lawn table formed the float of Bob's Coffee Shop.

Following the colorful Canyon Rotary Club float came the Peoples Store entry — two young ladies on a beautiful white, pink, and green float.

Included in the many unique floats were those of the Canyon News, the model home of the Canyon Garden Club, the friendship float of the Umbarger citizens, and the grain and hay exhibit of the Farmer's Elevator.

Following the spirited music of the purple and white Canyon High School Band came the prehistoric animal floats of WTST and Sinclair, and the clever float of Worth's Shoe Shop — the Old Woman who lived in a shoe and her children.

Scouting organizations were well represented. The boy scouts, the cubs, and the girl scouts all entered floats with an outdoor motif.

Creating wide interest was the beautiful young miss taking a bath under the auspices of the West Texas Gas Company, and the sewing room and housekeeping aid of the Works Progress Administration.

Other attractive floats were the French dolls of Marie's Beauty Shop, the "Church in the Wildwood" of the First Methodist Church, and the Southwestern Boat Works.

While the first prize went to the American Legion and auxiliary's birthday cake float, second place was taken by Umbarger's "Float of Friendship" and third place went to the log cabin float of the Burrow Lumber Company.

Mrs. Bob Campbell of Wildorado, wearing a white hat, a wine colored shirt, and riding a paint horse was declared the first place winner in the riders division with Joe Curry, second.

Nancy Taylor won first in the bicycle division with her "blue boat" with the yellow canopied bicycle of Janelle Allen took second.

The Hereford Band won the prize for being the best visiting musical unit.

Judges were Mrs. Olive K. Dixon and John Barton of Amarillo, and George Childress of Tulia.

Canyon became the food center of the Panhandle-Plains area at noon when John Snider, the barbecue king of the West, and his many Canyon assistants served 15,000 people in little over an hour's time from four corners of the court house square, serving tables were set up, greatly facilitating the task of feeding the many Plainsmen.

Thirty beeves were prepared and hundreds of pounds of dried apricots and everything else that goes with barbecue were cooked, and hundreds of gallons of coffee brewed.

Guests of honor at the barbecue were the pioneers themselves. They were seated at tables on the courthouse lawn.

Three outstanding public officials of Texas — Harry Hines of the Texas Highway Commission, Col. Ernest O. Thompson of the Texas Railroad Commission, and Dr. J.G. Ulmer, president of the board of regents of teachers colleges, took part in the impressive dedication of the memorial to pioneers.

Into the huge white vault, located on the northeast corner of the court house square, which was built as a tribute to the founders and pioneers of Canyon and Randall County, went the list of old-timers who registered here today, mementos and documents of past and present days. The memorial will not be opened until the citizens of this area observe their 100th birthday in 1989.

Speaking briefly, each of the three principal speakers praised the men and women who developed this section and the fruit which their efforts have borne. The service was in charge of Clyde Warwick, who also served as master of ceremonies for the entire celebration, and Dr. J.A. Hill, president of West Texas State College.

Boosted as the biggest in West Texas this year, the colorful rodeo boasting tough western stock, including horses that had never been ridden, and top-notch performers, was staged at both afternoon and night in Buffalo Stadium.

Large crowds attended both performances at the stadium, an ideal arena for rodeo because of its lack of dust and excellent seating facilities.

Special musical numbers and a show by the Maverick Club of Amarillo provided entertainment during the afternoon at the court house square and thousands were attracted by the midway and carnival. Over one hour of entertainment features were broadcast from Canyon over Station KGNC at noon.

One of the most colorful features of the entire celebration and one of the most typical of the Old West was the fiddlers' contest staged under the trees of the court house lawn. Old-timers, many of whom have furnished music for the old ranch dances of the '80's and '90's, played once again their "Turkey in the Straw," and "Little Brown Jug."

A 66-year-old Canyon man, E.A. Rusk, was declared the champion fiddler. His 45-year-old nephew, R.A. Rusk, won second place.

The day's celebration was climaxed with a colorful street dance on the public square in which young and old alike joined in. A modern dance was also held at the American Legion Home.

portions of the evaluation being used in determining who would and would not be promoted to higher rank.

Shelly said it is his understanding only one question of the 17 asked of students on the university-wide form is used in the promotion committee's deliberations on faculty excellence.

The question, he said, asks students to tell whether the faculty member has been an effective teacher.

"I disapprove of a system where 17 questions are asked and one is used," Shelly said.

Council Member Darrell Munsell noted that the majority of the faculty last spring called for control over student evaluations at the departmental level and the council should push for a change to that system.

In discussing the system used by the university administration for evaluating faculty members for promotion to higher rank, council members suggested the criteria used be explained and made clear.

Munsell suggested Dr. Donald Cates, university registrar be asked to attend an October meeting of the council to explain why the university offers preregistration opportunities to only new freshmen.

Dr. James Woodyard suggested the council contact the student body for a poll on how many would prefer some sort of pre-registration for each term.

In other business, the council approved appointment of Ralph Harbin, Bob Muir and Darrell Munsell to the faculty grievance committee.

the 25 per cent level.

Members of both subcommittees generally agreed to the proposal.

Mrs. Reynolds' committee also issued a statement backing "whatever decision the school board may make" in regard to the annexation or de-annexation of school lands for Amarillo.

The full committee is to meet again Thursday night by which time Jacobs is to work up a report on how much taxable property would be available should the school district begin taxing home furnishings and a report on the possibility of school children attending classes on a split daily shift.

They were also told by Gene Parker, placement advisor for the university, that it is now federal law that each incoming student be apprised of the salary and job opportunities in the field he has chosen to study.

Taxes . . .

offices in both counties indicates that in most cases real property in Randall County jurisdictions is placed on the tax rolls at figures far below the true 100 per cent market value. Amarillo tax office officials, on the other hand, claim their tax roll reflects an almost 100 per cent market value figure for several taxing jurisdictions for which the city collects taxes.

The city-school tax office, for example, claims the market value figure used to figure taxes for city and school is really only about 60 per cent rather than a true 100 per cent. Randall County officials, who are now conducting a massive reappraisal of all property in the county, say their tax poll figures are about the same.

The fact that valuations on the books are much lower than true market value figures serves also to keep taxes in Randall County jurisdictions lower than those in Amarillo.

As School Supt. Jerry Jacobs pointed out Friday night to members of the school Committee on Sound Financing, while the school tax is levied on 40 per cent of market value, the market value figure is figured on 1966 charts and the true levy is about 23 or 24 per cent of fair market value as reflected on the 1975 market.

Jim Nugent, Amarillo tax collector who gathers funds for the city, hospital and college districts and school district, says the city uses a computerized formula for keeping its rolls fairly current with 1975 market values.

He also provides information to Potter County, which collects most of its taxes on property within the city limits of Amarillo, to update their rolls.

Information provided by Amarillo on values to the Randall County tax office and is not used, according to a tax office official. Values are figures on formulas which have been used so many years Mrs. Audrey Bruse has said she doesn't know when they were originally worked up.

Figures released by Jacobs Friday night indicate Canyon school taxes, which have risen even higher since 1970, are still competitive with surrounding counties.

The tax the Canyon district could expect to collect on a $20,000 home, assuming the home is on the roll at 100 per cent of market value, would be about $153 this year.

The same home in Borger would cost the taxpayer about $202, in Dumas about $144, in Hereford about $222, in Perryton about $151, and in Tulia about $200.

While the Canyon resident's taxes may be lower than those in Amarillo this year, several activities are now underway which could alter that situation in the future.

Two years remain before new reappraised property values will be placed on the Randall County tax rolls. Tax office officials are now in a four-year assessment program, which they expect to raise values by well over 20 per cent.

Canyon school officials are also discussing the possibility of reappraising all property to raise valuations to a truer 1975 market value picture. Since the school and city operate a joint tax office, the impact of any reappraisal by the school district would also be felt on city taxes.

Likewise, the hospital district's taxes are collected by Randall County and a reassessment there would impact on the tax values and taxes collected by the hospital district.

Randall To Meet

Randall County commissioners face a long day Monday as they begin at 9 a.m. work on their proposed 1976 budget which they must trim by about $45,000.

Work on the budget will be the main item of business for commissioners during their morning session and their afternoon session which begins at 1 p.m. in the courthouse.

Band Parents To Sell Annual Birthday Calendar

The annual "birthday calendar" sale sponsored by Canyon Band Parents will begin Monday and continue through September 15, according to J.W. King, CHS band director.

The calendar sales will provide funding for high school band trips and other activities during the year.

Sales will be conducted by high school band students on Thursday in a house to house campaign beginning at 5 p.m.

The calendar listings (which include receipt of community calendar) are priced at $1.50 for single resident listings; $2.00 for couples without children listing their wedding anniversary and both birthdays; or $2.50 for families listing birthdates of all family members and wedding anniversary of the couple.

Residents not contacted during the drive may order the calendar by contacting Mr. King at Canyon High School, 655-2168.

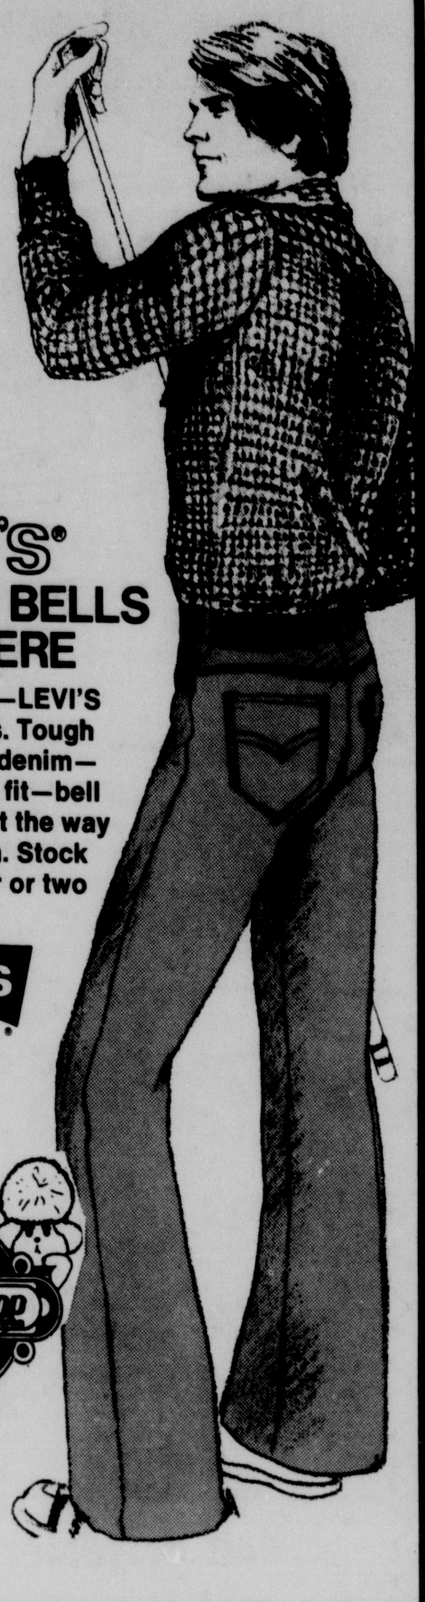

Sorority Has First Meeting

Chi Upsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority began the fall meeting season with a session Tuesday evening, September 2, at the home of Vi Taylor.
